

1. Choose an object in your home.
2. Using the guidelines from Ch. 6, write a ~200 word description WITHOUT EVER NAMING THE OBJECT. You can refer to it as "Object X" or "The Object" or something else.
3. Write a short paragraph or bulleted list describing 3 ways that you tried to meet the requirements of a high-quality technical descriptions. Please include page numbers from Ch. 6 in your analysis.
4. Finally, guess what at least 1 other student's mystery object is. If it's not clear, briefly explain what further information you need. If it is clear, tell the writer specifically what useful info tipped you off.

Object X

The object x is a piece of furniture will allow a nighttime experience of restful comfort created by today's newest technology. This following description of the object x will describe its features that provide its daily users a relaxing night of sleep.

Object X is made up of a varying types of foam padding layered to provide a great amount of comfort. With the absent of springs, the body of object x is more allowed to form to the more unique shape and relieving the aching stress of your body. There are materials used that also reduce radiating body heat, that allow a more cooler and peaceful night of sleep.

Object X is offered in a number of sizes: Twin, Full, Queen, and King

Upgrades are offered of object x depending on preference of the physical feel of object x. The greater the upgrade, and there is a cooler feel with the greater addition of the creating cooling material present in all types of this product.

With object x, the experience of sleep will become a time of rest that will make those dreams worth dreaming.

- Primary Readers: The Action Takers and Context of Use (page 134)

Provided information intended for a user of the product/object x

- Partitioning the Subject: By Features (page 136)

Describing the product/object x by its most likely more interested features of this technical description above

- Organizing and Drafting (pages 140-144)

Made primary use of a placement of a specific and precise title, definition of the product/object x, provided purpose statement of the product/object x, the product's/object x's importance, listing the product's/object's features and functions, and along descriptions of potential users' senses